Reports of University Representatives

Zagalo-Melo reported the following:

1. WMU is in the admissions yield season for international students. Some colleges with earlier deadlines are reporting expected visa denials. WMU is continuously seeing high levels of visa denials.
2. The Computer Science Department asked to start a pilot with the Global Tech platform, but given the Faculty Senate's position on the Memorandum of Action (MOA), Zagalo-Melo recommended delaying starting the pilot. Discussion of issues and obstacles to implementing Global Tech projects, and the role of the WMU Senate in the process. Key points: no issues for AAUP for partnering with Global Tech because courses would be run under existing course numbers; MOA's intention was to make things more transparent; those most opposed to Global Tech did not attend any of the several Global Tech presentations.
3. Zagalo-Melo announced his upcoming retirement this summer.

Reports of Council/Committee Standing Committees

Archer reported that the College of Education Committee will start again next year.

The Welcoming Students Working Group reported developing a survey, like campus climate, but more detailed. The working group is reviewing literature on how to make this a good survey.
